Message from the Dean

To the Graduating Class 2009-2010 of the College of Economics and Management (CEM):

There are certain moments in life that definitely change us – shape our future, mold our attitudes and develop our perspectives. Graduation day is one of those momentous events in one's life, a journey that leads to a chosen path. It marks both an end and a beginning, as one closes a chapter of academic trials, and move on to greater challenges in the real world. I can assure you that life beyond school will not be easy, but each of you must be prepared to take on greater challenges and embrace the enormous possibilities that career life has to offer. This reminds me of a quote I have come across few years back "The choices we make and the risks we take determine our destiny."

With this, I urge you to make pro-active and wise decisions, for your advancement and life lessons. Just remember to keep your feet firm on the ground, whatever status you may gain or wherever life may take you.

The measure of one's success is not in gaining material possessions nor fame, but in waking up each day doing meaningful actions that make you happy. I am confident that your college life in the university has provided you with the technical knowledge and skills to start your chosen career and build your profession with the right attitude and noblest intentions.

My sincere and heartfelt congratulations to all of you, who have greatly persevered and courageously seized the opportunity to obtain a Bachelor's degree at CEM. I trust that CEM has instilled in you a sense of patriotism and a love for learning as well as developed your analytical and critical skills. With your CEM education you should be able to survive in a fiercely competitive world and confront with courage and intelligence the uncertainties and anxieties in our time.

Godspeed!
